A Society Without A Traditional Family

We just heard one of the most famous of all the parables employed by Jesus in His teaching, the parable of the prodigal son. We rarely, if ever, pay closer attention to that part of the parable, namely the son's decision to leave his father, probably because we want to focus on the father's forgiving love or the elder son's icy coldness. But today let's consider the son's departure and what it tells us.

First of all, the younger son is asking for his share of the inheritance that will come to him upon his father's death. By demanding his inheritance right away he's telling his father that as far as he is concerned his father is dead. The only useful thing the son is looking for is for his father to die. But since that won't happen right away, he's demanding his inheritance now. This is self-centeredness at its height.

Now it is true that in some cases young people need to distance themselves from their parents or families because they are bad. In such cases it is a healthy thing for them to move away. However, the younger son in the parable obviously had a good father and home life.

So we are considering what happens when people cut themselves off from good parents, and a healthy home for selfish or sinful reasons. That at first leaving would give the younger person a sense of freedom, but it's a freedom that comes at a terrible price. The price paid is a loss of connectedness, a sense of loneliness in a world that is often a hostile world. Without the connectedness of a family and home we can find ourselves in a sort of foreign land, surrounded by foreign people in that we do not know them or understand them. Such persons become vulnerable to being used, spiritually and emotionally, and perhaps financially as well. Such bad experiences can lead to inner emptiness and cynicism. The younger son ended up penniless, his self-respect in tatters, while living among pigs, starving not only for food but more importantly for love.

Life is all about relationships. We are made in the image and likeness of God, the God whose very nature is to be Persons totally in love and existing for each other in infinitely deep relationships. We came from that God, and our destiny is to find ourselves in living out that reality. Leaving a good home, or separating ourselves from good parents and families is lethal; it is death dealing, a form of slow suicide.

There is another side of this story. Consider now the terrible truth that the majority of men who populate our nation's prison systems are men who have been fatherless. From the time they were little babies until they grew into their teen years they had no fathers, either physically or else emotionally.

The terrible cost of being fatherless is found in many young men (not all, thank God) who have turned to gangs to find their self-worth. In joining a gang they have found a sense of identity, of who they are. It's always a twisted image; it always results in hate-filled hearts and souls; it always causes them to become anti-social and commit terrible crimes of violence. Being fatherless, homeless, and alone in our hostile world exacts a dreadful toll on the individual souls involved, and a terrible cost to our society as a whole. Fatherless children are: 5 times more likely to commit suicide; 32 times more likely to run away; 20 times more likely to have behavioral disorders; 14 times more likely to commit rape; 9 times more likely to drop out of high school; 10 times more likely to abuse chemical substances; 9 times more likely to end up in a mental institution; 20 times more likely to end up in prison.

As Catholic Christians, we place a heavy emphasis on God's plan for us to be born and raised in what today's media calls the "Traditional Family," as if it is simply one option among many living arrangements. We recognize, of course, that many wives and children lose their husbands and fathers because of death, disease, or other causes and go on to successfully raise their children and keep their families intact. In no way can we dismiss the roles of mothers and other women in raising children. But fathers and adult male figures are important, and along with the roles of women they need to be recognized.

May we, as Catholics, do all in our power to build up all families and likewise do all that we can to cherish, care for, and support youngsters who have lost either their fathers or their mothers. The human family is the cradle of not only our American culture but of human life, and of peace and harmony in the world that surrounds us. Certain voices in our world sneer at that, but the family is, after all is said and done, the building block of our society.

Celebrating the Jubilee Year of Mercy with Service

The Liturgical Ministry Programs of Holy Name of Jesus are in need of a few (MANY) good generous hearts! We have many elderly or ill parishioners who would be most grateful to have Communion brought to them. This can be a First Friday visit or more frequently, if you are able. Contact Judy at the parish center, 715-845-3024.

You may have noticed that there are many spots on the weekly schedule that show no servers, ushers or Extraordinary Ministers of Communion. Again, your generous heart is needed. Call Ken Behring at 715-845-4089 to become part of the ministry.

Lectors, choir members, greeters and sacristans/church cleaners are also welcome. Training is available and the pay is heavenly!
