Unity, Being One in Mind and Heart in the Church

In today's second reading we read: "I appeal to you, brothers, for the sake of our Lord Jesus Christ, to make up the differences between you . . . to be united again in your belief and practice. . . as it is clear that there are serious differences among you." There is nothing more demoralizing and destructive in our family, community, society and our Church than division.

Division causes peace and joy to evaporate and replaces them with tension and squabbling, envy and jealousy. Division often comes about because either we want something that is wrong in itself or we want something good, but in the wrong way. Some people want to be: adulterers, fornicators, thieves, drug dealers, gossipers, some hoping to cause harm, and others not so much intending harm, as just "doing what everyone else is doing".

Others are impatient, inconsiderate, weak or lazy, wanting something good, but unwilling to put any reasonable effort into it. They cheat, cut corners, and are thoughtless of the impact of their bad example on others. They are too focused on the end result without caring about the means to achieve that end. And for some things, they will never admit that the problem is with them. They like to play the part of the victim and always point at others as the problem.

Articles often appear in the media which claim that Catholic teaching and the Catholic Church itself is out of touch with the real world. They refer to the teachings of the Church, as mere policies, and demand that they be changed to fit into the social norms of today's world. Good people can even start to believe that missing Mass without a good reason is no big deal. That sin has been replaced by mistakes. That one can actively support abortion and mercy killing and still be a good Catholic. Or that living in sin doesn't harm anyone; and that repentance and confessing one's sins are no longer needed.

A more honest approach for those who fail to live up to what they know is a teaching of Christ and His Church, would be to say, "I know this is the teaching, but I am not willing to live my life according to it". Or, "I am a Catholic, but at least for now, I am not being a very good one". At least that would be honest, and such an honest heart is still open to change and conversion.

Catholics are supposed to be formed and shaped by Christ and the teachings of His Church, so as to become better Christians. We can sometimes forget that our Lord called His followers to be salt and light in the world, and foretold that His followers would at times be rejected just as He was. Our Lord was a sign of contradiction. That means, we too can be a sign of contradiction to those around us, including some of our family members. Hence, we can see the need for us to be united with other Catholics who are making an effort to be faithful to their Catholic faith.

From prison Saint Paul begged the Ephesians to "preserve the unity of the Spirit" so that they would not be "carried along by every wind of doctrine, at the mercy of all the tricks men play and their cleverness in practicing deceit." To Timothy he wrote: "The time will come when, not being satisfied with sound teaching, people will be looking for the latest fad and listen to teachers according to their own tastes and then instead of listening to the truth, they will turn to what is popular." And he continues saying to Timothy, "Be careful always to choose the right course...." We too need to make every effort we can to know our Catholic faith and to choose the right course in living out our lives.

Come Sample the Lay Formation Institute Experience. NEW Class Begins in Fall of 2017

Would you like to see if the diocesan Lay Formation Institute (LFI) is right for you? What better way than to sit in on part of this exciting formation experience and "catch the spirit"? If you are interested in sitting in on part of a weekend, or even just one class, contact us at ministries@diolc.org or call the Office for Ministries and Social Concerns at 608-791-0161 to discuss your options. WHY DO WE DO THAT? - CATHOLIC TRADITIONS EXPLAINED

Question:

January 25th is the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul and the end of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity. What does one have to do with the other?

Answer:

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity consists of eight days beginning January 18 (the previous date for the feast of the Chair of St. Peter) and ending on January 25, the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. The celebration was begun by Paul James Wattson, a former Episcopalian priest who eventually became a Catholic priest. Suggestions for prayer and education for the week are distributed each year at geii.org, emphasizing a jointly chosen theme. The 1964 Vatican II document on ecumenism, "Unitatis Redintegratio," gave a great boost to the octave, so that today many Christians worldwide promote and participate in the octave time of prayer. The emphasis on both Peter and Paul aptly fits into the rationale of the octave. Peter is seen as the source of unity within the Christian tradition; Paul is highlighted due to his vision of bringing all to Christ. The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is an ideal opportunity to pray for and promote respect, understanding, and, hopefully, eventual unity among Christians.
