God's Justice is Not Ours to Decide.

Ancient legal systems had formulas that were applied to specific crimes, laws that prescribed punishments equal to the offenses. A common expression was: "an eye for an eye; a tooth for a tooth." Such a law was actually something merciful and required a reasonable, compared to some cultures where the tendency for punishment had become excessive due to a desire for revenge. Sharia Law for example calls for the cutting off of a hand or fingers for stealing. How many of us would be one-handed or missing a few digits by the age of fifteen?

Jesus instructs His disciples to follow a higher standard where laws are not based on retaliation and retribution, but rather based on solid Christian principles with the hope of reforming the wrongdoer; requiring a more reasonable reparation for the wrong done.

Jesus is not instructing His followers to let evildoers do whatever they please. Christians are not called to be pacifists in allowing evildoers to go unchecked. Christians have a moral responsibility to resist evil when they encounter it. There are times when the use of force, even deadly force, is required for self-defense or the defense of others. However, in our own personal lives we have numerous opportunities to either be vengeful, seeking ways to "get back" at others, or to be merciful and forgiving.

While it is true that God hates sin and evil, He doesn't permit us to use evil to overcome evil. Persons who do wrong fall into two categories: a weak person who acts out of weakness, or a malicious person who acts out of malice and takes delight in doing evil.

A Christian response, reflecting mostly God's mercy and forgiveness towards a wrongdoer who is weak is a good response. Such mercy and forgiveness may bring about a conversion of that person away from evil. A Christian response reflecting mostly God's justice however will be needed to restraint a malicious person, who lacks a moral compass of right and wrong.

Sometimes the evil doer has the upper hand and there is no immediate way of restraining him. But the Church has a multitude of heroic men, women and even children, who suffered greatly and even gave their lives to witness Christ and His Gospel.

Saint Paul was nobody's fool and he certainly was not weak. He suffered much for telling the truth and for standing up to evil and wrongdoing. He offered these words to his fellow Christians who were suffering persecution in Rome: Be patient in tribulation, be constant in prayer. . . . Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse them. Repay no one evil for evil. If possible, live peaceably with all. Never avenge yourselves, but leave it to God; for it is written, "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, says the Lord. If your enemy is hungry, feed him; if he is thirsty, give him drink . . . Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good. (Romans 12:12-21).

So how about you and I? When we are in situations where we can change things in family feuds and in conflicted relationships, do we make the effort in trying to bring about reconciliation; a new beginning? And we offer hope and another chance to others who may have wronged us?

WHY DO WE DO THAT? - CATHOLIC TRADITIONS EXPLAINED

Question:

Is it true that Friday is still a day of abstinence? If so, why do we eat meat?

Answer:

Church law and practice is universal, but some things can be changed or modified by a conference of bishops with Rome's approval. Abstaining from meat is a good example. Canon 1251 says, "Abstinence from eating meat or another food according to the prescriptions of the conference of bishops is to be observed on Fridays throughout the year unless they are solemnities." The bishops in the USA obtained permission from Rome to do penitential and charitable works in place of abstinence on Fridays. Friday should still maintain its penitential character through our personal sacrifices and good works. Our personal practices are not limited or defined by church law. Can. 1252 The law of abstinence binds those who have completed their fourteenth year. The law of fasting binds those who have attained their majority, until the beginning of their sixtieth year. Pastors of souls and parents are to ensure that even those who by reason of their age are not bound by the law of fasting and abstinence, are taught the true meaning of penance.
