From the Pastor's Desk

Praised be Jesus Christ! How many of you grew up watching “Mr. Rogers’ Neighborhood”? There was something endearing and consoling about his daily routine, which consisted in changing his shoes and putting on a sweater. There are a couple of movies about his life now, and it’s clear that he was a good man who had a remarkable way with children. Sometime ago I came across the commencement address that he gave at Dartmouth in 2002. It’s vintage Fred Rogers, especially this part: “I’d like to give all of you an invisible gift. A gift of a silent minute to think about those who have helped you become who you are today. Some of them may be here right now. Some may be far away. Some, like my astronomy professor, may even be in Heaven. But wherever they are, if they’ve loved you, and encouraged you, and wanted what was best in life for you, they’re right inside yourself. So, let’s just take a minute, in honor of those that have cared about us all along the way.”

Our lives flow into others’ lives, meaning that we affect and are affected by others more than we think. If you’re reading this column, it’s because someone taught you about God. At some point you learned about His Son Jesus, were baptized, and have continued to rely on His mercy and the graces He gives through reception of the sacraments. Thanking God for the people who have passed on the gift of faith is a sign of spiritual maturity. Whether it was our parents or Godparents or a Catholic school or CCD teacher, we received the gift of faith and for that we owe a debt of gratitude. Albert Einstein, who had some real struggles with organized religion, nevertheless concluded: “Strange is our situation here upon earth. Each of us comes for a short visit, not knowing why, yet sometimes seeming to a divine purpose. From the standpoint of daily life, however, there is one thing we do know: That we are here for the sake of other men . . . Many times a day, I realize how much my outer and inner life is built upon the labors of people, both living and dead, and how earnestly I must exert myself in order to give in return as much as I have received and am still receiving.”

Faith is a theological virtue, meaning that it comes from God and intends to lead us back to God. While the receiving is a bit of a mystery and is unique for each of us, it’s the passing on of the faith that we pause to consider here. As alluded to in last week’s column, witnessing to the Gospel is something that most of us find intimidating. But there are many things we can do so as to more actively engage our world with the Gospel. Without further ado, here are some practical things that will help us to be more effective in passing on the faith.

One of the first hallmarks of a confident Catholic is knowledge of the Bible. And this doesn’t mean that we attain the level of Scripture scholar – it just requires us to read the Bible a little bit every day. An easy way is to use a monthly publication like “Our Daily Bread” or “Magnificat” or “The Word Among Us.” People who read the daily Mass readings become very knowledgeable about the story of God’s love for His people. Along with knowledge comes a certain passion, the type that the disciples on the road to Emmaus describe as “were not our hearts burning within us?” If you have a Bible at home, an ancient practice is to read a little bit from it before going to bed. The Word of God has a way of driving away temptation, which seems to lurk more in the darkness of night.

One of the fruits of reading the Bible is understanding the relationship between the Old and New Testament. And that’s a very relevant thing for us, given that our world is constantly teetering between violence and the peace that only Christ can give. The more we know our story (and the Bible is precisely that), the greater our capacity for supernatural hope. As Catholics, we do the most good when we take things in stride. And that’s much more likely if we know from the Bible who God is and how He works in the midst of our world. Take the following quote for example – it points out how God is remarkably resourceful, always finding a way to redeem the past:

“In his commentary on the Gospel of John, Thomas Aquinas finds a clue to the relationship between the Old and New Testament in the mystical understanding of the miracle of the wine at Cana. According to Saint Thomas, the pure water in the kegs is a reference to the Old Testament. Jesus does not discard the water, but transforms it. In fact, all the water is converted into wine, not just part of it. This, says Thomas, refutes the Marcionites (a group of people whose beliefs were condemned) who reject the Old Testament. Jesus did not make wine out of nothing, but out of water, in order to show ‘that He was not proclaiming an entirely new teaching, discarding the old, but that He was perfecting it,’ (Ludger Schwienhorst-Schonberger).

Isn’t that a wonderful quote? And in understanding it, we see a God who sent His Son into our world to fulfill His ancient promises. That means God comes in peace, though we often accuse Him of messing up our plans. The problem has always been our spiritual blindness. When Jesus came the first time, most failed to acknowledge that He was the promised Messiah. Sadly, as we look out at our fallen world, we must conclude that we’re as spiritually blind as our ancestors. In the next weeks we’ll hear endless talk about human solutions for problems that are deeply spiritual. If only we could take a lesson from the past, remembering how often the Israelites got into trouble when they relied on their own strength. But we’re no different from them, stubbornly pushing God to the periphery and insisting that we know what we’re doing.

But deeper than the “buzz” of the world is the story of a God who made the world for us, and then He made us for Himself. We rejected Him time and time again. But He knew we would never be happy without Him, so He sent His Son to save us. And even though it cost Jesus His life, He did save us. Which means that this story has a happy ending. And that’s why our hope is as alive today as it was when Mary Magdalene realized that Jesus had defied death and walked away from His own tomb. Believing this changes people. Why not you? Why not me?

May God inspire us to read the Bible, so that we know our story and can share it with others!

Your friend in Christ,
Father Martin

28th Sunday in Ordinary Time

God gives us an invitation to have an abundant life. The banquet is ready, and the tables are set. Come! There is so much to attend to in the everydayness of our lives. We have plans, after all. There is never enough time and so much that needs to be done. There is work, children, and grandchildren, paying the bills, planning for retirement, figuring out the details of our next vacation, making sure we are on top of our game with work, planning social engagements, answering emails, texts, and getting our latest pictures on Facebook. There is always something. What is this about some banquet?

I need another party and commitment like a hole in the head. I can't manage what I already have, and someone is asking me to do more! Seriously? I saw the invitation; I think it came in the mail the other day. Did I leave it on the table? Oh wait, it may have gotten thrown away. I can't remember. In any case, I'm managing things pretty well on my own, I think. Thanks for thinking of me, but no thanks. My life is only as good as I make it and I have to be sure that all is in order! Oh, another invitation came today! This guy's being persistent. Now, I'm getting angry. I wish he would just leave me alone and stop with this invitation nonsense.

I woke up feeling a bit unsettled this morning. The kids have left the house, the grandchildren are busy with their lives, my retirement fund is losing ground, I'm worried about my health, folks have moved away, and I find myself alone. I am unhappy. I remember getting an invitation some time ago to a banquet promising new life and life in abundance. Did I miss something? I think I may have. I am finally discovering that life is not about me and my world. I think I've ignored the God who made me and the God who is the reason for my life, my hope, and my joy. It's always been about me. I have not really discovered Eternal Love.

Is the invitation still open? Can I come to the banquet? I think I'd like to come.

Next weekend we will celebrate World Mission Sunday. Pope Francis invites the entire Church to support missions dioceses in Africa, Asia, the Pacific Islands and parts of Latin America and Europe, where priests, religious and lay leaders serve the world's most venerable communities. Please keep the Pope's missions in your prayers and be generous in next week's collection for the Society for the Propagation of Faith.

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

To learn more about the Catholic response, visit the U.S. Bishop's website for their Pastoral Letter, "When I Call for Help." If you, a family member or friend needs help now, contact the National Domestic Violence Hotline, 800-799-7233 (24 hours); 800-787-3224 (TTY), www.thehotline.org. If you are in immediate danger, call 911.

Pray with us at 3:00 pm each day for family peace.

Catholics believe that God loves and cares for everyone, and that God knows their pain and concerns. Catholics For Family Peace invites you to join us in a moment of prayer at 3:00 pm, wherever you are, for those suffering from violence and abuse and those who use violence to control others. We pray for them and for all who work to end domestic violence. Would you set an alarm to join us each to pray?

FROM DEPLETION TO RENEWAL: A Resilience Building workshop for Caregivers. Sunday October 25th, 9 am - 4 pm Cost $65

A caregiver is defined as a professional or family member who provides for the care and well-being of others. Most caregivers find that being there when needed is a rewarding core value. Over time, however, the ongoing responsibility of caregiving can deplete and overwhelm even the most resilient among us, manifesting in emotional, mental, and spiritual exhaustion as well as physical illness. Moreover, an overwhelmed and depleted caregiver often experiences a sense of disconnect not only from those in his or her care but also from his or her own best self.

This workshop is recommended for family and professional caregivers alike. Professional caregivers can include teachers, chaplains, therapists, social workers, nurses, doctors, spiritual directors, and more.

Guests will be asked to wear a mask in common areas except at mealtimes. We strongly encourage each guest to bring his/her own face covering.

To register, call 715-443-2236, e-mail info@sarcenter.com in the Church during Religious Ed class time.

Catechesis of the Good Shepherd
SIGN UP TODAY!

Catechesis of the Good Shepherd (CGS) is an approach to the faith formation of children ages 3 to 5th grade.

The focus of the program is to deepen the child's existing relationship with God; to encourage the formation of a personal prayer life; to participate fully in the liturgical and sacramental life of the Church; and to develop a deeper understanding of Catholic identity and tradition.

Holy Name is proud to provide our parishioners the opportunity for children ages 3-12 years to attend CGS. Regardless of whether your child attends Newman Catholic Schools, is homeschooled or attends Religious Education, they can still participate CGS. CGS utilizes the Montessori principles of multi-aging.

The three levels, days and times of the sessions are:
Level 2 (1st-3rd gr) - Tuesdays from 2:30-5:30 pm
Level 1 (3 yr-kinder) - Wednesdays from 4:00-6:00 pm
Level 3 (4th-5th gr) - Thursdays from 1:00-4:00 pm
If you child attends school during any of those times they can arrive later than the start time.

The curriculum for CGS is not curriculum based which enables children to begin the sessions at anytime during the school year.

If you would like to bring your child for a walk through the atrium to see if it would be a good fit, please contact Noel at 715-842-4543 to set up an appointment.

Volunteers Needed! to Help Rake Leaves for our Parishioners on Oct. 24th from 8am to 1pm

Do you like to spend time outside in the fall? Would you like to have fun with your friends raking leaves? If so, please sign up to help with the Annual Leaf Raking project to help elderly people from our parish who cannot take care of their yard on their own.

Because we can only commit to the amount of yards our group can complete that day we need to know who will be helping. To help with this we have a RSVP deadline to volunteer of 10/16/20. Middle school and high teens can join the group with a HNP permission slip. Younger children can help but parents are required to stay with them for the entire time.

Make it a family event or bring your friends—the more help we have, the bigger difference we can make. This is an opportunity to share your time and talents with somebody while staying COVID safe. If you are interested in helping please call Noel at 715-842-4543.
